

There were sacred chickens in Rome that were consulted before any war or senate decisions were made